DOCOMOMO LAUNCHES GLOBAL VIRTUAL EXHIBITION ON MODERN MOVEMENT ARCHITECTURE
Lisbon, 23 November 2015
Instituto Superior Técnico, University of Lisbon
Pavilhão de Civil e Arquitectura, Sala 4.41

Docomomo International launches today a new project: the docomomo virtual exhibition (MoMove). The website – exhibition.docomomo.com – offers a selection of 3000 buildings and sites of the Modern Movement, curated by architects, historians and other professionals. This is a unique database for its geographic reach and number of works. The exhibition launch will take place at Técnico - University of Lisbon, during the IST Doctoral Week with the presence of Ana Tostões, Docomomo International Chair, Andrea Canziani, António Bandeirinha, Horacio Torrent, Miles Glendinning and Timo Tuomi.

The docomomo virtual exhibition is always in constant transformation, counting on docomomo members around the world. In order to increase public awareness to the importance of this recent and devalued heritage, this virtual exhibition is also a tool to promote its study, interpretation and protection.

Based on a world map, the user can search any building or architect, discover essential data, filter information by keywords, find image galleries and videos. The buildings can be shared on major social networks or commented directly. The MoMove also functions as a mobile app (web) making it easy to use while traveling and visiting a proposed tour within a close area or topic of interest.

Created in the Netherlands, in 1988, docomomo (documentation and conservation of buildings, sites and neighborhoods of the modern movement) is a global non-profit organization, present in 70 countries and regions, devoted to the safeguard of this particular architectural heritage (www.docomomo.com).

docomomo International Instituto Superior Técnico
University of Lisbon
Av. Rovisco Pais n.º 1,
1049-001, Lisbon, Portugal

contacts
docomomo@tecnico.ulisboa.pt
+351 218 418 102